ON BEING A SENIOR

Upon entering school last September second, a so-called dignified Senior, for the first time I hung my coat in the well-known and cherished Senior home-room. As you can imagine, I was feeling a little proud. But after a day or so the feeling wore off, not suddenly as it had come, but more gradually. The Senior Class began to realize that it was the leader of the High School and consequently began to assume responsibilities and to take a prominent part in various activities.

The first important events of the year dealt with football. A large number of Senior boys turned out to help Suffolk High carry through its schedule. A capable and responsible Senior managed the team through the season. No one else had to be called on to do the work. Likewise in baseball and tennis a Senior managed the teams.

With the election of class officers the Seniors felt a deeper responsibility than heretofore experienced. We realized that a successful year depended largely on the choosing of capable officers. This is true of under-classes also, but their elections usually end in popularity contests; regardless of leadership, ability, and other essentials. While speaking of officers, I might add the fact that Seniors fill a number of the more important offices of the school, such as the Presidency of the Student Senate and certain committees therein, the management of ticket sales, etcetera.

Thus in such a manner the Seniors rolled through their various activities with great success. But it was not until February that we discovered our greatest drawback—the lack of scholastic enthusiasm. Alas! it was too late for some. The others, however, with some few exceptions buckled down to studies for the three remaining sessions of school.

Then, following the jubilant Junior-Senior reception came that event, long hoped for, and so suddenly a memory. It is hard for a Senior to express his or her feelings toward Commencement. Some recklessly exclaim that they will be only too glad to leave high school forever, but such a declaration does not follow from any serious thought. A Senior looks back upon the happy moments experienced within these walls, also the sad moments, when the world looks dark—then, as a ray of sunshine passes through a class-room window, all seems bright again. These are all cherished memories, stamped in our hearts by four years of instruction in the same building. However, it will not be with tears in our eyes that we Seniors will leave. There is something greater for us to look forward to. After all Commencement is only the beginning.

JUNIOR CLASS

THE Class of 1935, being this year's Juniors, has had an interesting and admirable career. The class is divided into three homerooms under the capable guidance of Miss Johnson, Miss Yates, and Miss Lingo.

The group's scholastic average has been good. However, it seems only just to single out a few whose record has been outstanding: Joyce Jackson, Emily Cross, Langford Jones, and Norman Richardson.

This class boasts the only club—with the exception of the Boosters—in the school. The reference is to the Junior Forensic Club which, under the sponsorship of Miss Yates, has done much to develop the speaking and debating abilities of its members. Edwin Ferguson, in addition to being class president, conducts the affairs of this organization. The school's athletic prowess has been largely maintained by such Juniors as Bill Johnson, William Henry Cox, Tony Haslett, Raymond Dudley, Hume Woodward, Langford Jones, Alva Wilcox, Bernard Brown, and John Powell. In girls' basketball the spotlight falls on Mildred Green, Dorothy Sutton, Bee Lummis, and Virginia Wilkins, who were all members of the varsity squad.

Hume Woodward, Alva Wilcox, Allan Glazebrook, Bee Lummis and Doris Swain have contributed materially to a number of the year's dramatic successes.

The Peanut Picker has attained a new degree of journalistic superiority with a Junior, Virginia Sheffield, as editor-in-chief of one of the staffs.

The class has been active in literary pursuits having sent Anne Cross to Richmond to take part in the girls' public speaking contest and Hume Woodward to compete in the boys' reading contest. At the final contest held at the University, Anne was chosen state champion.

The all-round ability of Elsie Warrington and Mary Cross Jordan has been proved by the very capable way in which they have planned and executed assembly programs.

With such talent and experience the class should be graduated cum laude after one more year of work and pleasure.

BOOSTERS CLUB

On October 5, the Boosters Club held its first meeting. Lawrence Oliver was elected president; Stanley Morgan, vice-president; and Edith Council, secretary-treasurer.

The membership of the Boosters Club is composed of pupils who purchased the Student Activity Ticket. This year the Student Activity Ticket has had an even wider scope than it had last year. It included, last year, admittance to all home games of football, basketball, and baseball, and to two three-act plays. This year it included, in addition to those things just mentioned, the right to the yearbook. Moreover, no one who did not belong to the club could hold any office or take part in any of the plays. Yet the price of the ticket remained the same as it was for last year.

LAWRENCE OLIVER

In the first term of the year, the Boosters Club gave a dance in the gymnasium; Dan Luke and his orchestra supplied the music. The dance was very successful.

SENATE

For the past two years, the Senate has served as a forum for the discussion of problems relating to the students and their activities.

In the Senate have originated many plans to help the pupils and to maintain the morale of the school. The most notable of these plans is the granting of Senate Awards to homerooms which have made the largest contribution to the school community.

HONOR AWARDS

Honor Awards are given at the end of each term on a "point" system. For the February-June, 1934, term twenty-five was the minimum number of points a student was allowed to have in order to get an honor award. An A merits three points, a B, two, and a C, one point. For each extra curricular activity there are a stated number of points. A student must have at least six points for scholarship, and six points for extra curricular activities.

This giving of honor awards is an experimentation whose system has never been fully worked out, but it is hoped that in another year's time the basis for each phase of the award will be perfectly established.

The object of these honor awards is to encourage all-round development.

ASSEMBLIES

On Wednesdays and Fridays, the senior and junior high schools assemble in the auditorium where, for forty minutes, programs of various kinds are presented. The gatherings are ably planned by a committee whose chairman,

ELSIE WARRINGTON

Elsie Warrington, is assisted by Mary Cross Jordan with Mrs. Seward as faculty sponsor. It is the purpose of this group to discover talent and develop latent ability in the student body by placing upon it the responsibility for planning and carrying out programs which are entertaining as well as educational. In addition, these meetings afford an opportunity for discussing student problems and for planning the administration of extra-curricular activities. Upon these occasions, senate and honor awards are made and letters for signal achievement in athletics are presented.

Speaking roughly, the programs are of three types. First of all, there is the popular "variety" entertainment which employs all the vocal, instrumental and dance talent in school. It is very gratifying to see how many of us willingly and graciously take part. This year, great originality and ingenuity has been evidenced in such productions as "The Hill-Billies," the Democratic Convention, "The Lamp Went Out," "The Old School and New" and "Hot-Dogs."

New thoughts and ideas are brought to us by occasional visits from outside talent. Many of the local pastors have attended our chapel exercises, as have a number of the leading business men of the city. We always enjoy having alumni on our platform. Infrequent moving pictures are always a very welcome diversion.

Our schedule, of course, includes the celebration of national events such as Armistice and National Education Week. Some of our longest remembered assemblies will be those held in honor of the birthdays of the country's great men when our superintendent, Mr. John E. Martin, pays such lovely tribute to their memory. Especial mention should be made of the highly pertinent talk made by Mr. F. S. Chase on the subject of the NRA.

The entire school is grateful to Mrs. Seward and her committee for the untold amount of work undertaken by them in an effort to make our life together more enjoyable and worthwhile.

Dear Jakes -

Such, I'm glad you'll be back next year. He'll have a grand time to get it. I hope we can do things this summer
like we did last summer. We really did
have a
grand time
last summer.
I don't know
what else
to say except that I like
you lots and
hope we'll always be friends -
Love -

Here's wishing you the best of luck, now and always. I've enjoyed teaching you this year - Gladys H. Yates

SOUND managerial policies and long, successful experience have provided us with sufficient equipment, adequate personnel, and ample resources to render dependable service as artists and makers of fine printing plates. That you will be secure from chance, is our first promise.

and hope we are in one
together next year.
Ethel

Glad to know
you'll be back
with us next year. Ethel

ah Jack:
you are a swell
guy, and I like you.
We have had some swell times, and the best is yet to come.

I'm sorry to lose you from my class. Best o' luck!
S.W.H.

I have had a good time
with you in our two classes
and I hope that you pass history.
Best of luck Always,

J. E. Ward

Jossey I haven't had any class with you this year.
 But hope you come back
 next year and we can surely have a heart and
 class.

THE IMPRINT of PRIDE

be yours.

Bids for patronage on a basis of price alone get small response from people who know the true worth of good quality in PRINTING. They prefer to pay the slight difference in the cost of good printing over mediocre printing because of the vastly superior RESULTS obtained—and RESULTS, of course, are paramount.

BELL MADE ANNUALS are produced by skilled craftsmen to meet the most exacting requirements. But, measured by the standards of real service and satisfaction, they are, after all, the least expensive.

Wow! we have had a good time at school this year, haven't we - We surely have spent some money at times but if we didn't we would be eating in by now -
We have wished you loads
